Glacier Trails and Louise Riedel Memorial is having a Team Competition

1. There are 4 members to a team. This competition based on the riders only, regardless of the horses being ridden/driven.
2. Teams must be declared at the Glacier Trails Ride.
3. Each team of 4 must enter a minimum of 16 events over the two rides to be eligible for awards. (However, with three days of events at Glacier Trails and two days of events at Louise Riedel Memorial, a team could enter as many as 20 events.) Also important to point out...If 2 of your team members choose to enter 5 events, two members would only have to enter 3 events. The important thing is that your team has a minimum of 16 entries over the two "Rides."
4. Riders will be awarded 10 points for each event entered and started regardless of mileage. Placings will be awarded additional points as follows: 6th/1point, 5th/2points, 4th/3points, 3rd/4points, 2nd/5points, 1st/6points. Management will keep track of points and publish results between rides.
5. There will be three sets of 4 awards of similar value awarded at the Louise Riedel Memorial Ride. First place team members have their choice of awards, Second place team members have their choice of the awards left, and 3rd place team will receive what's left. (Depending on participation, it is possible that a fourth placing will be awarded.)

People had a lot of fun with this last year at the Louise Riedel Memorial, and I think you will have fun with it this year and enjoy the options available by including Glacier Trails in the competition. Call your friends, discuss your options, get your horses ready, declare a team and ride your rides. We'll take care of the rest.
